

Do We Really Want an Inner Revolution, or Do We Want Everyone Else to Change?

In person in two locations or via videoconference from anywhere!

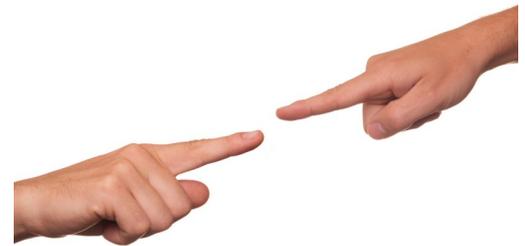

*If we're being honest, most of us feel aggrieved by others – family members, people in our communities, the government, the left/right/center. And we know the solution: He should stop drinking, gambling, womanizing; my colleagues/bosses/community should be more appreciative of my value; the government should whatever; and the left/right/center should see it my way. Okay, we're probably right. Probably all these things do need to happen. But what about us? What changes do WE need to make?

We at TheInnerRevolution.Org have been holding some fantastic monthly events where we look at our world and ourselves at the same time. For example we've worked on political polarization, the abortion divide and turning the economy on its head.

We are reaching out to people, not sides. We are examining the "whys," not just the "whats." And we're offering original and – we think – helpful analyses that go beyond the usual polarization, and we've got our radio show and more, always promoting the fight for Oneness, Accountability and Mutual Support.

And we've noticed an interesting pattern. People say, "Right on! That's just what we need. So glad you're doing this." And then they go right back to polarization, shame and blame. And we do that TOO. To be honest, we have to fight the same tendency in ourselves every day.

So we're holding our July Call to Conversation on the topic of "Do We Really Want an Inner Revolution?" And we're going to talk about why we don't; what would happen if we did; and how to change our attitude, if we can. And if you're smiling, nodding or wincing, join us. We appreciate every one who says, "So glad you're doing this." But, hey, jump into the pool with us for a penetrating, honest and good-humored couple of hours. Our event will once again be led by InnerRevolution.Org founder Beth Green, an intuitive counselor, facilitator, author, composer and singer/songwriter who loves to get real about herself and all of us. This is a free event, but donations are welcome. Hope to see you there!

Saturday, July 1, 2017
10 am – 1 pm PST

In person in San Diego*,
in McKenzie Bridge,
Oregon, or online anywhere

TheInnerRevolution.Org is a non-profit organization supporting the shift from "I" to "We" — dedicated to Oneness, Accountability and Mutual Support.

To RSVP, or for location options and instructions on how to join online, please contact Chris Reese at chris@theinnerrevolution.org or at (760) 505-4312. *The in person location in San Diego is Church of the Brethren, 3850 Westgate Pl, San Diego, CA.