

Men In The Trump Era: How Do We Really Feel?

A Half-Day Retreat for Men

Available in Person in San Diego or via Videoconference Anywhere

Sunday, April 22, 2018 | 10am – 1pm

Whether or not you like our current president or his policies, President Trump does represent the stereotype of a certain kind of man. He's rich and powerful. He brags. He's crude. He likes to throw his weight around. He uses force and intimidation. He's brazen. He sexualizes women. And he isn't afraid to say what he thinks.

How does this make you feel? As a man in the Trump era, do you feel intimidated? Emboldened? Angry? Impotent? Embarrassed? Inspired to be the same way or challenged to beat him down?

None of us is immune to the impact of this larger-than-life-sized president. We are certainly impacted by his policies and administration. But there is another kind of impact that is happening to us in ways that might not be so apparent. Meet with other men to talk about how this presidency is impacting you on the deepest levels. How are you feeling about yourself and other men? What is happening to you inside? Join us! This is a unique opportunity to be honest and to become clearer in your thoughts, your feelings, and your way forward.
